When it comes to the quality of our medicine, we don't take shortcuts.

There Are 3 Essential Components Of Our Product Quality:

1. HOW WE SOURCE OUR RAW MATERIALS

We take pride in ordering our bulk chemicals from the best suppliers. Through years of experience and extensive research, we have found differences in quality among chemical suppliers and have identified Professional Compounding Centers of America (PCCA) as the supplier with the highest standards. That's why PCCA supplies the vast majority of our ingredients.

2. HOW WE MAKE OUR MEDICINE

Our quality assurance protocols allow us to follow the entire life cycle of the medication from the moment raw ingredients enter our pharmacy, until the finished compounded medicine is dispensed to the patient. We have designed a comprehensive quality system that ensures that every step of every prescription we make is documented, checked and double checked.

3. HOW WE TEST OUR MEDICINE

We know that testing is an important way to monitor quality. We send our products to a third party for potency testing every month. This verifies our procedures and gives you peace of mind that your patient receives exactly what the label states. We also test every compounding technician monthly as a part of our continual and comprehensive staff training program.
